

2018 STATE BREED EXHIBITION

JUDGE - MELANIE GROTH

Overview

Long Stock coats

In general the quality was very good. Most were very well coloured with very good pigment, masking and saddle colour. They had good proportions with very good strength of bone. In a number of exhibits I noted that the plane of the skull and foreface should be more parallel and the ear set a little low on the skull. In general the necks were of good length, however in some cases they were on the erect side of correct. The withers were normal and the backlines good, however in a number of exhibits the middle of the back was higher than the wither, with a distinct bend in the lumbar spine. This in turn effects the lay of the croup making them steep. The length in general were slightly short to short. The winning open animals had good length of croup, however the tail set detracted slightly. The forehand angulation in general was good to very good. Slightly short upper arms affected the reach of a number of animals. The hindquarters in general were deeply angled and this coupled with instability of the hock joints. Many of the long stock exhibits do not stand correct in front. The movement in general was very good and powerful, however some dogs due to the depth of the hindquarter tend to show a weakness in the rear pastern where it comes into contact with ground almost the full length of the hock. This inhibits the completion of the drive as the forehand has to compensate and the dog either high steps or falls on the forehand. The angle of the hindquarter should be studied by breeders to see the true effect on the drive as it effects the balance in movement and whilst it looks impressive it is not correct anatomically for an animal that is bred to endure. In many animals I noted the tail length and varying degrees of carriage. This detracts from the overall impression and is something we should be aware of in our breeding programs.

The Sieger and Siegerin were both impressive animals of high anatomical worth, however they both carry the backline and deep hindquarter issue and it is important that in using these animals that we take this into account and try and look to use animals that will lesson the exaggeration.

Stock Coats

Young classes - Puppies

In general the young classes were of a pleasing standard, noting that some of the minor and puppies were large for their age. The bone strength was in most cases medium strong to strong. I did not observe any bone strength that was concerning.

The puppy bitch winner a daughter of X-Rated was outstanding, Lovely type, expressive with a lot of scope. Very good angulations and movement. Shows a lot of promise. The minor classes had good numbers and were of quite pleasing quality. Some were still to develop their sequence of steps and this was noticeable due to the depth of hind angulation in some of the exhibits. It's always a difficult decision weighing up the attributes of the puppies knowing that deep hindquarter angulation is an issue for the German Shepherd Dog worldwide, however if they are able to control their hindquarter and move with a good topline I was inclined to not penalize to heavily in the young classes. The fault has to be taken in consideration with the overall picture and construction. A short upper arm and underchest and narrowness through is equally as bad. It is yet to be seen as to how these youngsters develop with their angulation and age was taken into consideration in weighing this up. The influence of Conbhairean Freddie was evident in the young classes.

Adult Classes

Junior

The Junior classes were a little disappointing. No one animal stood out and it could have been judged differently on another day. It came down to performance and movement and those animals that had the best ground cover without falling on the forehand were at the front of the line.

Intermediate

Both the dog and bitch winners were of very high quality and really good representatives of the breed. Both a little elongated with noble expression, very good heads and lovely over and underlines. Scopey movers with excellent ground cover and maintenance of the wither at both slow and fast speeds. Great to see the State Sieger Rafael represented here with the bitch winner. The intermediate dog carries the influential sire Gerry Schacher with an excellent mother in Pedra degli Achei.

Open

The males were small in number of excellent quality. Totally convincing in this class was Schaeferhund Rafael, whose progeny at the show cemented his worth as a valued sire in Western Australia. He had many class winners and excellent gradings in the open classes. Unfortunately, the ear carriage on Rafael is marred by the haemotoma in his ear, however given that this is a Breed Exhibition it did not factor in the outcome and for me he is a very worthy State Sieger. It is clear he brings very good strength and substance to his progeny and they are typey, to him so the predictability of using him is evident for breeders. It would appear he produces very good top and underlines and does not bring excessively deep hindquarter angulation. The Reserve State Sieger X-Rated is a young dog and it is still early days however his performance in the ring, his bloodlines both mother and father and some promising youngsters convinced me to elevate him to the Excellent Merit grading. It is to be hoped that breeders in Western Australia make use of this lovely young male and consolidate the very good type he brings.

The bitches – Twelve presented, three Excellent Merit with the remainder obtaining the excellent grading. The female in 12th place in the class was of the working-line style and many may consider her construction may have precluded her from the excellent grading, however my observation of her in the class was that she was dry and firm, had a very good sequence of steps, carried the witherline well throughout the extended gaiting and I considered that she was a better mover than the two bitches in front of her. Their construction was of excellent quality and I chose to leave them in front of her for that reason. She is of German Shepherd type bred in the style of the working lines, put to a male with a very good angulations and strength of bone she should produce puppies that are dry and firm with better angulations than herself, therefore I chose to give her the excellent grading.

The winner of the class was convincing and not challenged for the State Siegerin title. A daughter of Raphael she stands in his type with excellent bone strength, colour and substance. She is dry and firm not exaggerated in any way and a powerful mover. I look forward to seeing her progeny in the future. Ciao Bella an older female with very good progeny placed second and Excellent Merit impressed with her outstanding, dynamic movement; a medium strong, well-constructed female who simply out-performed the younger animals in the class. She produced the lovely Intermediate LSC winner from Xaro. Excellent Merit 3 Volscaro Hypnotic Poison had an excellent graded littermate in the Open dog class. Hypnotic Poison is still a young female from the very good producing Hornemarks Ricco. She performed extremely well in the class and in both the on and off lead gaiting was outstanding. The fourth female Excellent 1 another Hornemarks Ricco daughter, I liked very much. Her type is lovely. She was presented in quite heavy condition and this marred her performance in both the on and off lead gaiting where she fell on the forehand and the ligamentation was not tight enough. This was the limiting factor in the grading. The remainder of the class had various restrictions in the length and lay of the upper arm and the length of the lower chest. A number of animals fell a little on the forehand and restrictions in the forereach limited them from going further forward in the class.

Thank you to the GSDAWA for the invitation to judge your State Breed Evaluation, 2018 and for the hospitality extended to me by Robyn and Kevin Knuckey.

Well structured head with desired dark mask and eyes. Well set ears. Noble expression. Very good length of neck, very good top and underline. Very good forehand angulation. Deep hindquarter angulation. Good fore and underchest. Good length of foreleg, the pasterns should be a little firmer. Stands correct in front. Stepping a little narrow at rear, correct at front. Displays very good ground coverage with powerful drive and very good reach maintaining a very good wither-line. In the off-lead gaiting he gave a very good performance maintaining very good lines. Self-assured and gunsure. A young dog with much potential.
